other that the important work of the congress will be given. The discussions which will take place are of universal interest, and include a discussion of supervision of vessels by government medical inspectors at ports of arrival and departure. Code of rules for handling an epidemic disease that breaks out on shipboard. Disinfection of passengers and crew during a voyage and the location and arrangement of ship's hospitals. Then again there will be an interesting discussion on the arrangement of detail and equipment of quarantine stations, length of time vessels should be held in quarantine and conditions that should determine proclamation of quarantiae against

Dr. Albert L. Gihon, the medical director of the United States navy, located at the Naval Hospital in this city, will deliver a formal address to the section on hygiene, climatology and demography, of which he is president. Dr. John C. Wise of this city is on the program to read a paper entitled "A Brief Consideration of Elephantiasis Arabum, as Observed in the Samoan Islands."

Surgeon General Walter Wyman of the marine hospital service of this city will open the section on marine hygiene and quarantine, of which he is executive president. It is to this section more than to any other that the important work of the congress will be given. The discussions which will take place are of universal interest, and include a discussion of supervision of vessels by government medical inspectors at ports of arrival and departure. From the St. James Gazette.

Two hundred pounds for an egg, however, is a large sum even for a collector to pay. Yet this appears to be the market price of a perfect specimen of the egg of the gigantic fossil bird epyornis. The egg is several times as large as that of the ostrich, but is not otherwise beautiful. But then it is rare, which is not surprising, since the epyornis left off laying some thousands, or perhaps hundreds of thousands, of years ago. M. Hamelin can get them if any man can, and he promises to put one or two upon the European market. He is going back to Madagascar, notwithstanding the fact that having unfortunately got a chief, who was his "blood brother," killed in his service, he has had to take over all the deceased gentleman's family, including his wives. The orchid-seeker sees and does strange things.

Y. 8119-1m construction recently at Sunderland, England, of a novel craft, a modification of the whaleback type, now so familiar on our western lakes. In the description of this new English steamer, the only one of its kind yet built, it appears that the hull is shaped like other vessels from keel to water line, but from the latter the shell is rounded off upward and inward until it terminates at the upper deck level in an upright structure termed a turret, running fore and aft.

NEW YORK MILITARY ACADEMY. The vessel has no shear, the deck reaching in a perfectly straight line fore and aft; the plating, curving inward from the water line to the turret deck, is thick and strong like that of the hull proper, so that the whole skin of the vessel is of the same degree of thickness throughout. The engines are placed aft, as in the construction of whaleback steamers, by which arrangement there is a long, continuous hold from the engine room to the forecastle, this being interfered with only by the necessary bulkheads. Another feature pertaining to this steamer is the location of the boats, and the accommodation for engineers and crew, all abaft the engine room, though the captain and officers are placed, as usual, under the bridge forward.
